LETTER FROM LEADERSHIP

2018 was a year of unprecedented growth for the Concussion Legacy Foundation! Thanks to the generous support of over 2,000 donors, we created and launched four innovative programs that are already proving to be real game changers.

Flag Football Under 14 (p.10) is teaching parents that flag football is a better – and safer – choice for children than tackle football, with the goal of reducing the risk of developing CTE.

The CLF Media Project (p.12), created with legendary broadcaster Bob Costas, is training sports media professionals on the best practices for covering concussions, so their work can educate vulnerable and hard-to-reach audiences.

Through the CLF Global Brain Bank (p.24), we are replicating our successful brain bank partnership with Boston University and the VA Boston Healthcare System by partnering with leading universities around the world, beginning with the University of Sydney in Australia and the University of São Paulo in Brazil.

We launched Project Enlist (p.27) to accelerate the study of CTE in our military veterans, to whom we owe so much.

Thank you for helping the Concussion Legacy Foundation achieve our ongoing mission. There is still much to do, but with your support we will continue to make progress every day toward smarter sports, safer kids, and a world without CTE.

Sincerely,

Christopher Nowinski

WHAT DO WE STAND FOR?

Concussions can derail a life, and CTE can devastate an entire family. The Concussion Legacy Foundation believes we all have a responsibility to ensure athletes can reach their full potential on and off the field, and brain injuries don't destroy lives.

MISSION STATEMENT

Our mission is to support athletes, Veterans, and all affected by concussions and CTE; achieve smarter sports and safer athletes through education and innovation; and to end CTE through prevention and research.

VISION STATEMENT

Our vision is a world without CTE, and concussion safety without compromise.

The background of the slide is a dark, blurred image of a football game. A prominent blue banner with white text is centered horizontally across the middle of the image. In the bottom right corner, there is a dark grey rectangular box containing white text.

EDUCATION & ADVOCACY

By educating sports media professionals about concussions, the CLF Media Project will create safer outcomes for kids in sports.

A SPEECH AS EASY AS 1-2-3

- 1 We're a team and we look out for each other.
- 2 A teammate with a concussion needs your help.
- 3 I expect you to SPEAK UP to a coach or athletic trainer if you suspect a teammate has a concussion.

TEAM UP SPEAK UP

Team Up Speak Up, our national concussion awareness program dedicated to mobilizing teammates to help diagnose concussions, set new records for participation!

This unique and innovative program was launched in response to studies revealing that standard concussion education, which asks players to self-diagnose their concussion and remove themselves from the game, is ineffective at changing behaviors. Team Up Speak Up, built on the bystander intervention model, uses a train-the-trainer approach to teach coaches how to give an effective speech to their team, reframing concussion awareness as being a good teammate. Players are told that a player with a concussion needs help, and a good teammate will speak up to the coach or athletic trainer if they suspect a concussion in a teammate.

Coaches are encouraged to give the Team Up Speak Up Speech to their team along with the team captain at the beginning of each season to reset social norms and change the culture. By encouraging teams to share video of their speech on social media using #TeamUpSpeakUp, we amplify the reach of Team Up Speak Up's positive message, especially among youth athletes. To participate next year, sign up at TeamUpSpeakUp.org.

Participation from the U.S. Indoor Lacrosse team, the University of Maryland, Georgetown University, and Loyola University Maryland.

Confirmed participation in 49 of 50 states including 15 state high school associations.

We launched Flag Football Under 14 in January 2018 at a press conference in New York City. Joining us at the launch were NFL legends Nick Buoniconti, Harry Carson, and Phil Villapiano, along with Dr. Robert Cantu, Dr. Lee Goldstein, and Chris Nowinski, Ph.D.

We launched Flag Football Under 14 in January 2018 to educate parents on the benefits of waiting to enroll their child in tackle football until age 14. The last decade of research has revealed that the best way to prevent the brain disease Chronic Traumatic Encephalopathy (CTE) in football players is to make sure they start playing tackle later, reducing the number of years they are exposed to repetitive hits to the head. Our goal is for each contact sport to have a youth version that does not allow purposeful repetitive brain trauma for children under age 14.

In response to the growing body of research on concussions and CTE, five states proposed legislation in 2018 that would establish an age minimum for tackle football. We helped announce The Dave Duerson Act to Prevent CTE in Illinois in January. Named after Chicago Bears legend Dave Duerson, the starting safety on the 1985 Super Bowl Champions, the bill would end organized tackle football for Illinois children under age 12. Duerson's son, CLF Family Advisory Board member Tregg Duerson, passionately supported the proposed legislation.

CLF co-founder and medical director Dr. Robert Cantu first advocated for age-appropriate, non-collision sports for children under age 14 in his 2012 book, Concussions and Our Kids. As Dr. Cantu and his CLF co-founder Chris Nowinski, Ph.D. continue to make the case from a scientific perspective, legendary football players and coaches continue to step up and voice their support for #FlagFootball14. From John Madden to Mike Ditka to Brett Favre, football icons believe waiting to play tackle until high school is the best thing for the players, and the game.

Since launching Flag Football Under 14, many respected names in the football community have voiced their support for the idea that kids can wait to play tackle football until high school or later.

One of those voices has been Biff Poggi (below, right), coach of national high school football powerhouse St. Frances Academy and a staunch advocate that kids don't need to play tackle football before high school.

To illustrate that waiting to play tackle football doesn't hurt your chances of becoming a star player someday, we assembled our Flag Football All-Time Greatest Team, made up entirely of NFL legends like Tom Brady, Jerry Rice, Lawrence Taylor, and Walter Payton, who didn't start playing tackle football until at least high school.

MEDIA PROJECT

The CLF Media Project is the first and only concussion education program designed specifically for people in sports media. By training journalists on 22 lessons such as knowing their league's concussion protocols, accurately reporting on concussion signs, and retiring terms like “ding” and “bell-ringer”, sports media members will inform their massive and hard-to-reach audiences about proper standards for concussion management.

The Media Project is divided into two parts: the Concussion Reporting Workshop, a curriculum for sports journalism programs at colleges across the country, and the Concussion Reporting Certification, a quiz for working journalists to get them up to speed on evolving concussion guidelines.

CONCUSSION REPORTING CERTIFICATION

We developed the Concussion Reporting Certification, a 20-question quiz to train people in sports media how to cover concussions accurately and with confidence. Since the launch, dozens of sports journalists have taken our Certification.

Sports media professionals from major platforms like ESPN, TNT, Sports Illustrated, MLB, and NBC Sports are already certified. Influential writers and voices in the sports world like Brian Anderson, Maggie Gray, Sean McDonough, Alyssa Roenigk, and Shira Springer are certified in how to cover concussions accurately and with confidence.

MEDIA PROJECT

CONCUSSION REPORTING WORKSHOP

The Concussion Reporting Workshop was taught at our three pilot schools in 2018. First by J.A. Adande at Northwestern's Medill School of Journalism, then by Olivia Stomski at Syracuse's Newhouse School of Public Communications, and then by Andrea Kremer at Boston University's College of Communication.

The Workshop will be taught at a new group of some of the nation's top journalism schools in fall 2019.

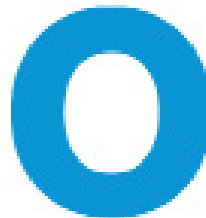

ADVISORY ROLES

Concussion Legacy Foundation co-founders Dr. Robert Cantu and Chris Nowinski, Ph.D. are proud to serve as volunteer advisors to more professional and collegiate sports organizations than any concussion-focused nonprofit in the world. By working with professional and collegiate sports to educate stakeholders and set policy, CLF sets the example for high school and youth sports to follow.

NFLPA

PATIENT & FAMILY SERVICES

Mike and Kim Adamle's public battle with Mike's probable CTE provides hope and resources for families affected by CTE.

POST-CONCUSSION SYNDROME (PCS) RESOURCES

PCS can be devastating, especially for teenagers and adolescents. We have built an unprecedented web-based resource to help patients and families recover, cope, and maintain hope that better days lie ahead. Our resources feature videos from experts, peer advice, explanations of treatments, coping strategies, and inspiring stories of recovery.

CHRONIC TRAUMATIC ENCEPHALOPATHY (CTE) RESOURCES

CTE affects the patient and the family. As more patients are diagnosed with probable CTE while they are alive, our web resources have become the playbook for coping families. We help patients, caregivers, and children understand CTE, find support within their community, and learn to live their best life with CTE. It all starts with finding the right doctor to treat their symptoms.

Former NFL player and sportscaster Mike Adamle was diagnosed with cognitive impairment and probable CTE in 2016. Through our program The Mike Adamle Project: Rise Above, Mike and his wife Kim provide advice and inspiration to families that may be living with CTE.

A man with short, light-colored hair and safety glasses is shown in profile, wearing a bright yellow lab coat over a white collared shirt. He is speaking and looking towards the left. The background is a laboratory or office environment with a window and some equipment.

RESEARCH

The CLF Global Brain Bank is accelerating our understanding of the effects of concussion and CTE on athletes around the world.

VA-BU-CLF BRAIN BANK

The VA-BU-CLF Brain Bank, founded in 2008, continues to thrive. Led by Dr. Ann McKee, who was listed in the Time 100 Most Influential People in 2018, the Brain Bank has become the largest CTE tissue repository in the world. 70% of confirmed cases worldwide since CTE was first identified in 1928 have been diagnosed by researchers at the VA-BU-CLF Brain Bank. This success would not be possible without our Legacy (Brain) Donors.

In 2009, Dr. McKee discovered a link between CTE and ALS symptoms.

GLOBAL BRAIN BANK

CLF Global Brain Bank

In March we launched the CLF Global Brain Bank, a network of academic research centers that will collaborate with CLF to promote brain donation to study the effects of Chronic Traumatic Encephalopathy (CTE) and other sports-related brain trauma. The CLF Global Brain Bank is modeled off the success of our collaboration in the United States with Boston University (BU) and the VA Boston Healthcare System (VA).

GLOBAL BRAIN BANK

We announced our second CLF Global Brain Bank collaborator in October in Brazil. The University of São Paulo's famed Biobank for Aging Studies has studied over 3,000 brains and led major advancements in the world's understanding of age-related brain disorders. Now, it is studying CTE as part of the CLF Global Brain Bank.

CLF National Advisory Board member Rose Gracie (right), a member of the legendary Gracie family which developed Brazilian Jiu-Jitsu and founded the Ultimate Fighting Championship (UFC), traveled for the announcement and is leading all local efforts to recruit Brazilian athletes to pledge their brain. We anticipate new Global Brain Bank collaborators in 2019.

MY LEGACY

My Legacy promotes the CLF brain donation registry by acknowledging contributions to concussion and CTE research and ensures a bright future for the VA-BU-CLF Brain Bank. 2018 saw many sports stars pledge their brains, including Stanley Cup winner Ben Lovejoy, 3x Olympic medalist bobsledder Elana Meyers Taylor, and ice hockey legends Hayley Wickenheiser and Angela Ruggiero.

More than 5,000 people have taken the #MyLegacyPledge to donate their brains, including a record 209 during Brain Pledge Month 2018. Each pledge receives their own customized brain donor card to acknowledge their contribution to accelerating concussion and CTE research at the VA-BU-CLF Brain Bank.

We launched Project Enlist to expand our investment in TBI (Traumatic Brain Injury), CTE and PTSD (Post Traumatic Stress Disorder) in military Veterans. This program acknowledges the incredible sacrifices made by those who have suffered injuries while in service to our country. Those who have been injured fighting for our country deserve special attention for their service. Through Project Enlist, we are recruiting brain pledges from the military community to raise awareness of the need for additional investments in Veteran support services.

To announce and raise awareness for Project Enlist, racing legend Don Schumacher and the entire Don Schumacher Racing team joined over 12 military Veterans to pledge their brains at a press conference in Colorado in July, 2018.

COMMUNITY EVENTS

Eric Lindros and Chris Nowinski, Ph.D., enjoy a laugh after Lindros received his Impact Award at the 2018 Concussion Legacy Gala.

Nowinski and Cleveland Advisory Board member Zoltan Mesko after Nowinski threw the first pitch at a Cleveland Captains game.

Bears legend Gary Fencik with Rob Johnson, Doug Plank, and Nowinski after Fencik accepts his Courage Award at the 2018 Chicago Honors.

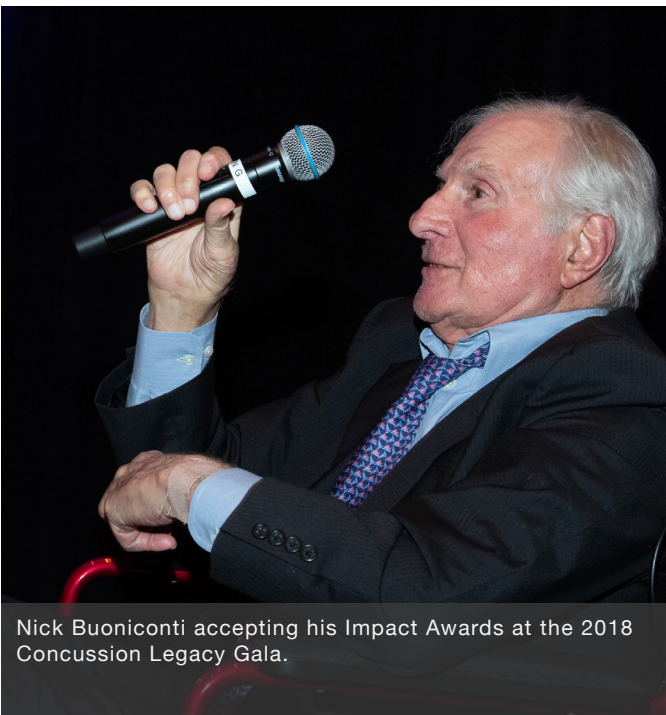

Dr. Robert Cantu, our co-founder and medical director, presents to our Legacy families at the 2018 Legacy Family Huddle.

Nowinski flexes with "Mighty" Meredith Casey of the Mighty Meredith Project. Nowinski later gave a talk in Meredith's hometown.

Nowinski gives his TEDx Talk on #TeamUpSpeakUp in Spring 2018.
